

Greetings!

I was in southern California at Christmas last year. And I had a macro lens with which I needed to get familiar. The typical sunny weather of the area gave me plenty of opportunity. The results of the exercise are shown in the "Featured Gallery".

The textures and colors observed up close offered a whole new opportunity for creativity in post processing. More will come, I'm sure!

John